Search on for Killers of 3 in Mississippi

By KESLO STURGEON
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Federal and state authorities today intensified their search for the killers of the three civil rights workers whose bodies were discovered after a painstaking 44-day search.

The state was ripe with rumors that arrests were imminent but the FBI would neither confirm nor deny the report.

"I'll let my superiors in Washington do the talking," said Roy K. Moore, who came to Mississippi less than a month ago to head the FBI's expanded operations in the state.

HONOLULU (AP)—Negro comedian Dick Gregory said today he handed the FBI a letter pinpointing the location of the bodies of the slain civil rights workers in Mississippi.

Gregory, active in the civil rights movement, said he has a tape recording that contains the names of the killers of Michael Schwerner, 24, Andrew Goodman, 20, and James Chaney, 20. Gregory said the FBI has a copy of the tape.

The performer, who is entertaining at a Honolulu night club, called a news conference early today in which he made public a copy of the letter he said he handed the FBI about the locations of the bodies.

There was another report which also drew a no comment from authorities — that instead of arrests a grand jury would be asked to sift the evidence in the case and make indictments as it saw fit.

A pathological report from the University of Mississippi Medical Center here said all three were shot to death. The bullets were recovered, it was reported.

The decomposed bodies were dug out of an earthen watershed embankment in a thickly wooded region, infested with poisonous snakes, near Philadelphia, Miss., late Tuesday.

Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, both white New Yorkers, were positively identified, the FBI said. The third body was certain to be James Chaney, 22, Meridian Negro who had accompanied Goodman and Schwerner on a trip to Philadelphia from Meridian on June 21.

At Philadelphia, Neshoba County Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price said Chaney had been shot three times and Schwerner and Goodman each once.

Price said he was present in Jackson Wednesday during a portion of the autopsies, and he understood all three had been shot from the front.

Arrested on a speeding charge, the trio spent six hours in jail at Philadelphia. A sleepy town of 5,000 in east central Mississippi 80 miles from Jackson. They posted bond late that night, reportedly drove off toward Meridian in their station wagon and were never heard from again. The charred hulk of their vehicle was located two days afterwards 20 miles from the spot where the bodies were found.

"My boy died a martyr for something he believed in — I believe in — and as soon as his little brother Ben gets old enough he'll take James' place as a civil rights worker," said the mother of Chaney. Her other son is 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goodman learned that one of the bodies was their son, Andy, from a pre-dawn call from the White House.

"Our grief, though personal, belongs to our nation," said the elder Goodman at his New York home. "This tragedy is not private. It is a part of the public conscience of our country."

In Washington, Rita Schwerner, 22, widow of the other white civil rights worker, said she felt pity "for anyone so frightened, so afraid, so full of hatred themselves, that the only action they can take is to lash out."

She vowed to continue in civil rights work "as long as I live."

Business to Be Calm in Crisis Time

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Business executives are likely to take a calmer view of the Viet Nam military showdown than do traditionally more emotional stock traders.

The stock market's quick drop after the U.S.-North Viet Nam naval encounter was its normal reaction to uncertainty.

Business executives are more prone to keep an eye on the economy itself and find scant reason as yet for overhauling their plans.

Neither stock traders nor business management like uncertainty. And the possibilities they might read into the dramatic developments in Southeast Asia will give both pause.

But it's the volatile stock trader who will react first — either selling some stocks in a flight from uncertainty and to cash in on paper profits, or buying others on the chance of a pickup in orders from a shooting war.

The economy is too strong, however, for what is still a brush war — and could prove to be only a minor one — to upset it.

Much of the excitement in the stock market comes from the in-and-out traders. They look for the quick profit, move fast to cut a feared loss. When they don't know what might happen, as was the case Tuesday, their instinct is to get out of the market while they're still ahead.

And many of them have a good chance just now to take sizable profits. The market has been climbing most of the time since November. Many stocks bought last December or January have sizable paper profits for the taking, and now are in the six months range for long term capital gains accounting for tax purposes.

Business takes a longer view. A shooting war in Viet Nam, if it doesn't spread into a much wider conflict, won't upset the general prosperity. Nor will it enhance it.

A few companies may hope for more defense orders. Most U. S. corporations will expect orders and sales to stay on the present course—some companies helped by existing defense orders, many more prospering from high consumer demands.

Room Full of Lovely Ladies So Charming That Butter Wouldn't Melt in Mouths

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The room was full of lovely maidens so charming that butter wouldn't melt in their mouths.

As a matter of fact, they were all so figure-conscious that most of them left the butter untouched on their plates.

The occasion was a luncheon for a group billed as "20 of the world's most beautiful girls" en route to a pageant at Long Beach, Calif., Aug. 14 where one will be named "Miss International Beauty."

Meeting beauty contestants is pretty much like sight-judging rhubarb pies at a county fair. You don't know much about the filling—but the crusts all begin to look much alike.

I was sitting there glumly forking at some tired peas and feeling rather sorry for myself. Then I met the pretty lemon buyer.

She came over and sat down beside me and said that she was Erika Augustin, that she came from Vienna, and that she was "Miss Austria."

She had reddish-brown hair and eyes the color of a Mediteranean sky in spring.

Erika turned out to be friendly, affable and frank. "I am a teenager," she admitted. She leaned across the table and confided, "I am 25."

Well, that made her different

$98 Millions for River Work in Arkansas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee approved Wednesday $98 million for work on the Arkansas River — the amount Army Engineers say they need to keep the navigation program on schedule.

President Johnson recommended the $98 million.

Johnson's previous request made in his budget message in January, called for only $84 million, but Arkansas' congressional delegation and backers of the program asked the President to raise his request.

The program is scheduled to make the Arkansas navigable from Catoosa, Okla., near Tulsa, to the Mississippi River by 1970. The 452-mile segment including a 10-mile canal at Arkansas post, would have a channel nine feet deep and no less than 150 feet wide.

Johnson made the reduced request in the interest of economy, he said. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and others protested that this was false economy and would result in higher costs later because of rising prices on land, materials, labor and equipment.

The navigation program is expected to cost about $1.2 billion.

The House has voted $89 million for the program. This was before Johnson increased his request to $98 million, which is $1 million less than the Army Engineers first said they needed to keep the river work on schedule.

The committee approved the amount as part of a $4.4 billion public works bill for the year which started July 1. The total was $4,400,000 under what Johnson requested, but the $107 million more than the House approved.

right away. A 25-year-old beauty contestant is about as rare as an octogenarian trying to climb Mt. Everest.

"I did this just for joking," she said. "It is the first contest I have entered."

"In Vienna I model some times. I had it in mind to be an actress. But I had to choose a serious work to earn money."

"I am secretary and buyer for a fruit firm. I travel to the South Tyrol and buy apples and pears, and I travel to Greece and buy oranges and lemons."

I dutifully asked the question you must ask all beauty contestants or you feel cheated.

"What are your... uh... uh...?" I said. Miss Austria drew her self up proudly.

"I am high one meter, 65 centimeters," she said.

"Inches?" I inquired, taking notes furiously.

"No — centimeters," she replied. "I don't know what my measurements are in inches. All I know is that in Austria they are the best you can have. There are none better."

On this pleasant note we parted company. I left with the conviction that as a lemon buyer Erika was pretty peachy. The girl really knows her apple strudel.

Rules State Districting Now Is Fair

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office, in reply to a suit filed Wednesday, said that the composition of the Arkansas Legislature is fair, reasonable and constitutional.

The reply was to a suit filed by John Yancey of Little Rock. It asked a federal court to order redistricting of the legislature on a population basis in line with a recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling.

The ruling said both houses of legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis rather than on a geographical basis, as the Arkansas Senate is.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Jack Lessenberry said in his reply to the suit that the matter of reapportionment "is reserved solely and exclusively to the control of the people x x x of Arkansas."

He said state courts rather than federal courts should decide whether the present system is fair.

A three-judge federal court has been appointed to consider Yancey's suit. No date has been set for a hearing.

Yancey filed the suit while he was a candidate for state senator from Pulaski County. He ran third in the July 28 primary to Jim Brandon and Everett Tucker Jr., who meet in a runoff Tuesday.

Feed Truck Driver Hurt in Accident

Lindy Powell, driver for Pilgrim Feed Co., was injured about 10 a.m. today when the feed-loaded truck he was driving apparently blew a tire and dropped down an embankment on the Hope-Bocaw road.

The driver was pinned in the cab for a few minutes. The truck looked as if it nosedived down a 12 foot drop. It was loaded with 20,000 pounds of chicken feed.

Powell was rushed to a local hospital by a Herndon-Cornelius ambulance. He appeared to have a back injury the seriousness of which could not be determined immediately.

Worst Heat Wave in Area of the U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The worst heat wave in several years kept its intense grip on the south central states today. Oklahoma sizzled in the heat.

The record breaking 110-degree reading at Tulsa Wednesday was the highest temperature recorded there in more than 10 years. Ada, Okla., also marked up 110 degrees and Hennessey, just northwest of Oklahoma City posted a mark of 111.

Oklahoma City's 106 was the highest so far this year. It broke the record of 105 for Aug. 5 set in 1929.

Violent thunderstorms lashed southeastern Texas and at least one tornado roared through the area late Wednesday night. The tornado injured five persons and destroyed one house in the Keith Lake area between Port Arthur and Sabine Pass.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., had winds up to 70 miles per hour with 1.92 inches of rain. Winds caused some damage to house trailers, boat houses and trees in the Shreveport area.

One-hundred-degree temperatures were recorded Wednesday in the Dakotas. But later heavy thundershowers whipped across the Dakotas in advance of an eastward-moving cold front.

The Weather Bureau said continued dry weather was having an adverse effect on corn and some other crops in sections of the Midwest and Southwest.

U.S. Military Builds in East, Officials Keep Eye on China

Committees Quickly Okay LBJ's Action

By ERNEST VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top Senate committees overwhelmingly approved today a top Senate committee overwhelmingly approved today a resolution giving bipartisan backing to President Johnson's military actions in Southeast Asia.

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees sped the resolution to the Senate floor for what Democratic and Republican leaders hoped would be quick passage there.

They did so after Secretary of State Dean Rusk asked them to put Congress on record as leaving Communist aggressors "in no doubt whatever" of the unity and determination of the American people to defend Southeast Asia against Red aggression.

Only Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee who has denounced the resolution as a "predated declaration of war" in Asia, voted against it.

Rusk, supported by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and Gen. Earle C. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the senators recent North Vietnamese torpedo-boat attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin "are no isolated incident."

"They are part and parcel of a continuing Communist drive to conquer South Viet Nam, control or conquer Laos and eventually dominate and conquer other free nations of Southeast Asia," Rusk said.

Rusk, McNamara and Wheeler testified behind closed doors in support of the resolution giving bipartisan backing of Johnson's military actions in Southeast Asia. A copy of Rusk's opening statement was released by the committee.

The bipartisan leadership planned to bring up the resolution for quick passage in the Senate.

Faubus Thinks the Stump Talk Is Out

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Wednesday that he still has not mapped his strategy for the campaign against Republican Winthrop Rockefeller.

Faubus said "the stump speech is almost in the past" and that campaign issues can be explored better in television or in newspaper advertising.

There is little need for the "courthouse lawn type of speech" any more, Faubus said. The governor said he will take no sides in races in next Tuesday's runoff primary because he thinks "it is improper for the governor to inject himself into a local election contest."

Ships, Planes Routed Toward the Crisis Zone

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States pressed its military buildup in Southeast Asia today as officials watched for any clue Red China might ignore President Johnson's warning and start its troops marching.

Many officials here doubted they would. They expressed belief Peking would, in general, confine itself to mounting a propaganda attack, which is already under way.

The Communist Chinese charged the United States with aggression against North Viet Nam and declared "U.S. imperialism" has gone over the brink of war. They said the "Chinese people will absolutely not sit idly by without lending a helping hand" to prevent North Viet Nam from being "subject to aggression."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk termed the situation explosive in the aftermath of the "very successful" American air strikes against Communist North Viet Nam's patrol boat armada.

"We cannot be completely sure about what the days ahead of us may hold," Rusk said, and the administration braced for a siege of trouble in Southeast Asia.

As a precaution, the United States rushed more planes and ships — including the giant carrier Ranger and 12 destroyers from the West Coast — toward the crisis zone.

And the President delivered a clear warning to Red China, or any other nation with a nervous trigger finger.

Addressing thousands of persons gathered at the Syracuse University campus, Johnson declared Wednesday: "To any who may be tempted to support — or to widen — the present aggression, I say this. There is no threat to any peaceful power from the United States of America. But there can be no peace by aggression, and no immunity from reply. That is what is meant by the action yesterday."

Bipartisan resolutions uphold the President's decision to fight back against North Vietnamese attacks were introduced in the Senate and House Wednesday and were expected to receive overwhelming approval Friday.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara detailed Wednesday the flaming havoc wrought by the bombs and rockets of U.S. carrier planes in retaliation for Red PT boat attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

McNamara said reconnaissance flights confirmed the air strikes were "very successful" and that the immediate crisis in the gulf was over.

discounted two Saigon rumors, which also lacked confirmation elsewhere.

One was a story that Ho Chi Minh, president of North Vietnam, had been replaced by a pro-Peking subordinate in the North Vietnamese Communist party.

The other was that two squadrons of Soviet-made MIG fighters had been flown into North Vietnam.

The spokesman said he "had nothing to back up" the rumor about Ho Chi Minh. He said he had no information about MIGs.

SAIGON, South Viet. Nam (AP) — Air traffic came to a virtual halt throughout South Viet. Nam today as U.S. and South Vietnamese forces stood ready to meet any attack from the Communist North.

The general feeling in Saigon was that if nothing important happened in the next 24 hours, the crisis probably would be past.

A steady shuttle of transport planes through the night completed a buildup of troops and material in the area, adjoining the North Vietnamese frontier. Vietnamese and American officers in the area were reported expecting a major attack tonight.

However, the alert status in Saigon was nowhere near what it would be if an attack were considered imminent.

So far, the crisis in the Gulf of Tonkin has produced no upsurge in attacks from the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet. Nam. Fighting was reported at near normal level, with some reduction in incidents.

The government reported South Vietnamese forces suffered 106 casualties during four strong Viet Cong attacks in various parts of the nation Wednesday.

All the incidents occurred before the U.S. bombing raids on North Vietnamese coastal bases and did not appear related to the tension in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The heaviest action was at Ba Ring, a hamlet in Ba Xuyen Province 120 miles southwest of Saigon. A major guerrilla force smashed through the town's defenses. After the fight, 13 defenders were dead, 6 were wounded and 30 were missing.

Reports from the field indicated no special Viet Cong activity today.

The U.S.-supported South Vietnamese forces were on an around-the-clock alert. All routine military air traffic was halted. All leaves except for emergencies were suspended for the 18,300 U.S. servicemen taking part in the guerrilla war against the Viet Cong Communists.

Six U.S. Air Force F102 jet interceptors landed at the big coastal base of Da Nang, 80 miles from the Communist frontier, sources reported. They said five Vietnamese army divisions also were prepared to fight in the area.

Another six American F102's arrived in Saigon Wednesday to defend the capital. The U.S. Embassy issued security precautions to Americans in the form of a "gray alert" after two bomb incidents in Saigon, although neither involved Americans.

U.S. personnel were asked to remain home as much as possible when off duty to avoid large crowds in the city, to take special precautions in their choice of public transportation and to be on the lookout for explosive devices in vehicles.

30 Bombers Fitted Out for Combat

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — About 30 U.S. Air Force B57 jet bombers, capable of carrying nuclear weapons when fitted for combat, today joined American and South Vietnamese forces standing watch to meet any attack from the Communist North.

The fleet of high-flying, twin-engine Canberras sped to Saigon unheralded while a steady shuttle of transport planes completed overnight a buildup of troops and material in the area adjoining the North Vietnamese frontier.

Air traffic came to a virtual halt today. The general feeling in Saigon was that, if nothing important happened in the next 24 hours, the Gulf of Tonkin crisis probably would be past.

The alert status in South Viet Nam's capital was nowhere near what it would be, if an attack were considered imminent.

There was no public announcement of the arrival of the B57s but they were seen by a correspondent on a runway apron occupied Wednesday by six supersonic F102 Delta Dagger fighters from Okinawa. The F102s were gone, perhaps to augment defensive aerial forces at Da Nang, a base on the South China Sea 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

Broilers and Beef Good Market Buys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Beef and broilers are among top attractions at the nation's groceries this weekend.

One national chain offers rib roasts at 69 cents a pound, pot roast at 55 and boneless chuck at 69 cents, in its New York area markets.

Other beef in the spotlight include sirloin steaks, corned beef and hamburger.

Broiler fryers are also in good supply, inviting "special" tags at many shops. One national chain features whole birds at 27 cents a pound this weekend in the Northeast.

Pork attractions include loin roasts, chops, hams and sausage.

Among the top fresh-vegetable offerings are beets, sweet corn, cauliflower, cucumbers, radishes and tomatoes.

Fresh-fruit features include summer apples, lemons, plums, cantaloupe, and nectarine.

Fanatical African Sect Is Outlawed

By JOHN MCCAUSLAND
LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — The Northern Rhodesian government has temporarily outlawed the fanatical Lumpa sect, whose rampages in the past 12 days have cost at least 270 lives.

In a nationwide broadcast Monday night after the Lumpa massacre of 150 persons at Lundazi, Prime Minister Kenneth Kaunda threatened anyone attending meetings of the cult with seven years in prison.

Kaunda said he does not dispute the right of the Lumpas to their religious beliefs — a hodgepodge of African superstition, paganism and Church of Scotland theology — but he insisted on the restoration of order. He said he would lift the ban in about a month if the carnage ends.

Kaunda is trying desperately to bring peace to the central African country before it receives independence from Britain in 12 weeks.

Some 2,200 native troops under white officers are combing the bush for Lumpa prophets. Alice Leshina, who founded the sect 11 years ago, claiming she had died and returned from Heaven.

Officials believe the terror at Lundazi, a market center 400 miles northeast of Lusaka, was in retaliation for the slaying of 75 Lumpas at the sect's headquarters at Stone Thursday. The Lumpas died in a suicidal charge with spears and muzzle loaders against government riflemen.

Some 200 men and women sacked and destroyed 10 villages, attacked government offices and overran a police station in the Lundazi area Monday, a government spokesman said. Most of the victims were African villagers. Two Indian families and an African policeman also were killed, the spokesman said.

Kaunda told a party rally in Lusaka to leave repression of the Lumpas to his government. Vowing to avenge those slaughtered, Kaunda promised to give the sect "three times as much trouble" as it had given.

"There is something wrong with our nation," he said. "Part of us has stopped thinking, we have got to work hard to clean up this rubbish."

Alice Leshina, in her 40's, who was reared in a strict Church of Scotland mission, is believed to have some 20,000 followers.

Centerville 4-H Club Meets
The Centerville 4-H Club held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, August 4, at the Community Building.

The meeting was called to order by Virgil McNatt, the President. Frankie King led the club in the opening song. Jimmy and Dennis Langston led the club in the pledges.

The program was devoted to working on an incomplete this year's project book. Carolyn and Carol Wayne Beck served refreshments to ten members, four leaders, and three visitors.

Coming and Going
Mrs. D. H. Crafton and three daughters, Sandra, Denise, and Donna of Ft. Bragg, N.C. arrived last week in Hope for a visit with Mrs. Crafton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McDowell and her sister, Mrs. Aubrey Collier, Jr., and family.

The Collier family and the Craftons have gone to Ft. Worth this week to visit their brothers.

Mrs. Steve Carrigan, Jr. has returned from Rochester, Minn., and Burlington, Ohio.

Rape Ruling on Apportionment

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — An official of the American Farm Bureau said here Tuesday night that the U.S. Supreme Court ruling on apportionment of state legislatures could disrupt the American system of government.

Roger Fleming of Washington, D.C., told about 450 persons attending the annual meeting of the Arkansas Farm Bureau that the decision could harm a time proven system of government based on checks and balances.

Fleming, executive secretary of the national group, attacked the recent ruling which said that membership of state legislatures must be decided only on the basis of population.

He said it was not right for federal authorities to dictate how states should govern themselves.

Searing Heat Dents Tourist Business

By J. C. TILLMAN
Associated Press Writer

Arkansas' searing summer heat hasn't dented the tourists' enthusiasm for the state.

Nearly 3.5 million of them have trekked through its playgrounds thus far this year — 878,000 of them last month.

They're overflowing outdoor parks and cabins like conventioners swamp a city. And the 3.5 million represent only visitors to the 11 facilities that have resident superintendents.

The figure does not take in countless hundreds more who didn't take cabins or camp out, but visited one or more of the 12 other "day use" facilities operated by the Publicity and Parks Commission.

These include such civil war monuments as Poison Springs, Jenkins Ferry and Marks Mill.

The first 948,000 came in the cold months of January through April.

They visited Petit Jean Mountain, the Buffalo River park, Lake Catherine, Queen Wilhelmina, Devil's Den, Crowley's Ridge, Lake Chicot, Bull Shoals, Lake Ouachita, Mt. Nebo and Withrow Springs parks.

In May another 750,000 came, followed by 825,000 in June, then the July influx.

Lou Oberste, publicist for the commission, says reservations are hard to get at some parks, but by no means unavailable. In areas where tourists fill outdoor camping areas equipped with fireplace and table, latecomers are allowed to stay overnight in adjacent areas without such facilities.

They still are near drinking water and sanitary facilities.

Mt. Petit Jean is still the favorite of the "furriners" visiting the hills, but Buffalo River, Lake Catherine and Lake Chicot just about tie for second place.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus said at Hot Springs Tuesday that lack of good roads to Arkansas' remote areas has hurt tourism in the state. And his politician opponent in the November general election, Winthrop Rockefeller, is a strong proponent of tourist attraction development.

Crowley's Ridge park, described by the commission as a facility "more of a local nature" than such attractions as Queen Wilhelmina, Bull Shoals or Devil's Den, is an indication of the need for development.

Mert Cochran, superintendent at Crowley's Ridge, says, "If the crowds this year are any indication, the number of persons who visit the park will far exceed any previous year in attendance."

"At the rate we're going now, we could easily reach 600,000 before the end of the tourist season," Cochran says.

"What we need," Cochran says, "is a good, extensive plan, possibly by a qualified engineer or committee of engineers, for a huge expansion plan at the park. Matter of fact, if we keep increasing the number of visitors every year, we're going to have to have an expansion."

He describes the area as a weekend playground for "all of Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri," but notes license plates from every state in the union.

Last year just over five million persons made Arkansas a playground.

They and their contemporaries appear bent on setting a new record for the state this year.

First Bale of Cotton Ginned
DERMOTT, Ark. (AP) — The Lephew Ginning Co. here ginned what apparently was the first bale of cotton from the 1963 crop in Arkansas Wednesday.

B. H. Waldrup of Halley bought the Rex variety cotton at the C.T. Beasley farm in Desha County. The 515-pound bale was ginned from 1,600 pounds of seed cotton.

Spends Most of Time in Restaurants

By DON WATERS
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — There are 26 restaurants along the New York State Thruway and Patricia Ann (Trish) Lamb figures that she has visited each of them at least 10 times since June 1.

It's not that the 20-year-old Cornell University coed is so fond of eating. The visits are required by her unique summer-time job.

Trish is spending her summer as a $100-a-week roving restaurant inspector for the Thruway Authority. And she is the only woman on the agency's 12-member inspection staff.

Her duties include scrutinizing the coffee shops, dining rooms, cafeterias, kitchens, food, service, garbage buildings, women's rest rooms, parking lots and landscaping of the franchised service areas along the 559-mile toll road system.

The tools of her trade are a keen eye and a pad of inspection forms, on which she checks 17 items as satisfactory or unsatisfactory. She turns in the reports to Thruway headquarters each week.

Trish inspects the quality and quantity of the food, as well as the conditions under which it is prepared and served. This requires some taste tests, of course.

But the brunette, who stands six feet, also is keeping a close watch on her figure.

"I haven't gained an ounce," she said proudly.

But she won't reveal her weight.

Trish goes on the road for five days at a time, stopping each night at motels near the Thruway. She figures she has clocked nearly 10,000 miles in her official Thruway car since starting work six weeks ago.

Trish spends anywhere from 10 minutes for a spot check to 4 hours for a full-dress inspection. Her visits usually are made known in advance and she tries to arrange them for peak business hours to see whether service-area employees do a good job when hurried.

Trish was selected for the job, partly because she is a woman and because of her special background.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lamb, operated a restaurant for several years at Bolton Landing, on Lake George, and had first-hand experience as a bus girl, waitress, hostess and assistant manager. At Cornell, where she will be a senior in the fall, she is studying in the school of hotel administration.

King Michael abdicated the Romanian throne under Communist pressure in 1947, but renounced the abdication in 1948.

Man Held In Wife's Shooting

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — James Serratt, 39, of near Malvern was held without bond to day on a second degree murder charge in the fatal shooting of his wife.

Prosecutor Lawson Glover said Mrs. Geraldine Serratt, 34, was killed instantly by a bullet from a small caliber rifle. She was struck over the left eye.

Glover quoted Serratt as saying he and his wife argued after he returned to his home in the Oak Grove community from a round of visits to Garland County taverns Tuesday night.

Glover said Serratt told him that Mrs. Serratt took the couple's four children and went out to sleep behind a dog kennel.

The prosecutor quoted Serratt as saying that he heard dogs barking later and fired several shots toward the kennel.

The Serratt children are Margaret, 15; Sue, 13; Beverly, 10, and Sherrill, 4.

Crisis Way of Life at Pentagon

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crisis has become a way of life in the Pentagon.

The Red patrol boat attacks on American destroyers in international waters off the North Viet Nam coast is only the latest in a series of alarms that have been sounding with growing frequency in almost two decades of cold war tension.

With the exception of Korea, the incidents have been Communist testing of free world determination. In one, the Cuban missile showdown, nations hovered on the brink of atomic war.

Always there was the chance that an incident and its reactions could flare into major war. And this is true of the naval clashes between the United States naval vessels and the patrol boats of North Viet Nam.

Red China, powerful ally of the Vietnamese Communists, is close — and watchful.

The Pentagon has files packed with plans for coping with contingencies. The plans have existed and been constantly revised for years. They cover a broad spectrum of probable, possible, or remotely conceivable emergencies.

Thus, it may be said that when the Defense Department ordered the close-in patrol by surface ships in the Gulf of Tonkin off the Red Vietnamese coast, it considered and put into a contingency plan things that might evolve from the patrol.

The planners certainly were aware the destroyer patrols might draw Red reaction. They assessed the capabilities of the North Vietnamese to react alone or in concert with their big neighbor to the north. When the destroyer patrols were started more than a year ago, a carrier was kept steaming near the mouth of the gulf, ready to send her planes to help the destroyers if they encountered shooting trouble.

When the Tonkin Gulf situation moved from a contingency situation into a sea battle, the plan went into operation. A quick radio message from the destroyer brought fighter plane help from a carrier.

In Tuesday's engagement planes were in the area above the destroyers Maddox and Turner Joy, on President Johnson's order, when PT boats darted in through a storm and a three-hour battle opened.

In the opening incident Sunday, the Maddox radioed its call for air help from the carrier without coding it because of the extreme urgency of the situation. This is accepted procedure in such critical moments.

Both military and civilian chiefs in Washington were informed of the attack almost before the echoes of gunfire had died away.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The second largest annual money bill, a $13.5-billion appropriation to finance 26 federal agencies, has cleared the Senate and gone to the House carrying $5.3 billion for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

All efforts to cut the agencies' funds were rejected during Senate consideration Wednesday.

Only the $47-billion defense appropriation carries more money.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson hasn't said, officially that he'd like to be nominated for president, but Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey — like everyone else — is so sure, he's announced who will do the honors at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City.

Fresh Cash Pumped Into Poultry Co.

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

Fresh cash is being pumped into the mammoth Arkansas Valley Industries, Inc., in a bold new stroke designed to take the links out of poultry marketing.

The poultry business has jumped to national scale only within the last few years, but it already has become almost traditional that a good year is followed by a bad one, which is followed by a good one.

John T. Oxley of Tulsa, Okla., and Durbin Bond of Little Rock are supplying the new capital in a plan to level out the periods of loss and profit so the industry can get on and stay on the profit plane.

Harold Snyder, former president and board chairman of AVI, has given the newcomers liberal options on his stock, among other inducements which could be extremely lucrative for Oxley and Bond.

Oxley, who reportedly has $22 million worth of stock in Allied Chemical Co., is believed to be worth $50 million or more. What is of greater importance to AVI is the fact that he has a reputation as a man who is skilled at making money.

Snyder says AVI wants Oxley to lift the AVI out of the up-and-down pattern and put it solidly on the up.

In the last fiscal year, AVI reported losses of more than $2 million.

"This shocked the industry, our financial people and some of our own employees to the point where they were not doing a good job," Snyder said. He said that AVI ranks among the top five poultry processing and feed making companies in the country.

Part of the huge loss was due to the fact that it cost AVI more money to buy grains needed for feed manufacturing because the prices of grains were supported by the government. Over production within the poultry producing industry also hurt poultry sales. And part of the loss can be written off to a trick of bookkeeping, since some of the money goes into a reserve fund which is held as insurance against future losses.

Oxley, who is regarded as a genius in the oil business, Snyder said, will study the poultry industry, determine what the real market is, and then AVI will begin to produce for a "known market" rather than simply producing poultry and then waiting to see how much of it the consumer will buy.

This would be of little significance and if AVI alone planned to gear its production to market potential.

"We in the poultry industry won't follow somebody we grew up with, and in this business we all grew up together," Snyder said.

Oxley's stature in the business world and his reputation as a business wizard, Snyder said, will induce other major poultry and feed companies to follow AVI's lead, thereby stabilizing the industry.

This is an oversimplification, he said, but it still is the gist of the situation.

The effect this plan will have on Arkansas will be huge.

"There is no one in the Arkansas River valley who is not affected in some way by AVI," an AVI official said.

Snyder said AVI accounts for "one-half of the economy in a 50-mile radius between Fort Smith and Little Rock."

This centers on the cities of Russellville, Dardanelle, Waldron, Morrilton and several others. More than half the jobs at Dardanelle are provided by avi, and innumerable other farmers in the valley sell poultry and/or grains to the company.

"We have known quite a while what we should do" to level out profit and loss periods, Snyder said. "I would not have been against going ahead on my own, but I could not gamble with the lives of other people."

"This way, if we lose $2 million, okay," he said. "We don't like it, but we know it's coming back. If we lose $2 million the next year, okay again. We know it's coming back sometime. We just aren't sure when."

California GOP Has New Leaders

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California's Republican leadership passed today to a new team of officers with few close ties to Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign organization. Incumbent legislators Sunday turned back a pro-Goldwater threat to their traditional control of the Republican State Central Committee.

The established group prevailed, too, in the writing of the Republican state platform. It rebuffed every major proposal by a militant minority of ultra-conservatives, especially on civil rights.

Both the new chairman, Dr. Gaylor Parkinson, of El Cajon, and vice chairman, James W. Halley of San Mateo, pledged to work hard for the Goldwater Miller ticket.

Neither took sides in California's Goldwater - Rockefeller contest in June. That primary gave Goldwater his biggest pre-convention victory and sent him on his way to the GOP presidential nomination.

And Goldwater himself is known to keep suppressed that view within the past year.

Threaten to Leave School Group

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A state Education Department staff member said Monday that some school districts had threatened to pull out of participation in the National Defense Education Act to avoid integration under the Civil Rights law.

But A. W. Ford, education commissioner, said no districts had formally withdrawn, and said he discounted the reports as rumors.

In the last fiscal year 264 Arkansas school districts got $967,416 under the education act for improving instruction in science, mathematics and modern foreign languages.

Also 134 districts got $155,129 under the act for guidance and testing programs.

All but two districts in the state, Calhoun and Newton counties, have taken part in the act at one time or another. Since the program started in 1958, $5,821,257 has been spent under the program, half in federal funds and half from Arkansas school district funds.

The history of the doughty old cannon on the lawn of the Old State House is that this old cannon was once obtained for use in the defense capitol during the Brooks-Baxter war. As turned out the cannon was never fired during that trouble, and as a matter of fact, was fired only once during its active life, and that time as a salute. Its nickname is Lady Baxter.

Barry Plans Many TV Appearances

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's Republican presidential campaign will rely heavily on television and hit hard at states where the Arizona already has a strong base of support.

And through it all, the Goldwater forces will be quietly watching the issue of civil rights in the North. On that score, they plan now to be silent.

For, although men around Goldwater have said in the past that the so-called white backlash in northern states could mean votes for their man next November, they have hastened to add that the question will for them be a completely quiet one.

Goldwater, genuinely concerned around its explosive implications, is doing his best to keep it that way.

The lessons of the long primary campaign are much in the minds of Goldwater's men as they map strategy for the coming race against President Johnson.

Three states stand out: New Hampshire, Oregon and California.

In New Hampshire, where he lost the nation's first primary to Henry Cabot Lodge, Goldwater was a candidate who talked constantly, who for a time held almost daily news conferences.

In the wake of that event the Goldwater forces tightened their planning, turned to prepared speeches instead of off the cuff talks with small groups of voters, and sharply cut the candidate's news conference appearances.

The senator said later he suffered in New Hampshire from overexposure to the press.

In the big battle ahead, says Dean Burch, Republican nominal chairman, Goldwater can be expected to stick to the post-New Hampshire pattern — and seek to stick to a handful of vital issues.

"Too many issues and the campaign can come unglued," he says.

The pattern Goldwater's men seek to shape is the one they followed in California, where the senator eschewed the whistle stop style of vote-hunting, took his message to the voters in an intensive series of television appearances — most of them on tape or film — and made his personal appearances at a series of major places.

Together, the California and Oregon primaries signal the third key factor in current campaign planning. Goldwater's forces figured in advance the Oregon primary was lost and the forces called off the senator's personal campaign there.

Instead, they concentrated time and money on the California primary. And in California, they worked hardest at the southern areas where Goldwater appeared strongest.

"We had seven days left," says Burch. "We were strong in the south, weak in the north. We spent 6 days in southern California, one half day up north." And Goldwater won — on Southern California votes.

Wheels of Justice Grind Fast

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The wheels of justice grind faster in Allegheny County these days thanks to a computer and a man whose mind, associates say, works like one.
The system is the brainchild of Judge Henry Ellenbogen, Vienna-born president judge of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court.
The court, with 19 judges and 204 fulltime employees, is the eighth largest metropolitan court in the United States.
Oppressed by the heavy backlog of civil cases such as plaques courts across the country, Ellenbogen ordered a study of the problem soon after becoming president judge less than two years ago.
He said the need of a computer to speed administrative tasks became apparent almost immediately.
The computer operation began in October 1963 with an order from Judge Ellenbogen that thereafter all attorneys would have to fill out special cards for each case. Each attorney also was assigned a number.
Since then the case backlog has been reduced by one-third with the definite possibility it soon may be eliminated.
At the start of the program, there were 8,000 cases pending. There are now 5,559. The time lapse between when a case is filed and when it is finally settled has been reduced from 3½ years to two.
Judge Ellenbogen said the computer enables the court to know in a matter of minutes the complete history of any case and in a matter of hours the complete breakdown on the number and types of cases pending or the number of cases a single lawyer or law firm is handling.
In the past, the judge said, such statistical information would have been impossible to obtain.
Charles Starrett Jr., administrative assistant to Judge Ellenbogen, said the Allegheny County system is unique in that it follows a case from start to finish. Computers are in use in other cities, he said, mainly to record phases of cases or isolated statistics such as fees.
Despite the computer, there has been little effect on employment, according to Starrett. Employees who used to have to dig through the files to compile these lists, now have been trained to run the computer.
Judge Ellenbogen graduated from Duquesne University Law School and went into private practice in Pittsburgh. He served three terms in Congress from 1932 until his election in 1938 to his first 10-year term on the Common Pleas bench.
Of the use of a computer in court work, the judge said: "I believe we are on the threshold of a great and basic reform in court administration."

A Buildup in Savings Reported

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A buildup in savings is reported this summer. This reverses the trend earlier in the year. And it adds a new chapter, however brief it may prove to be, to the business and government's hardy whodunit. What will the American consumer do with his money?
Retail sales are still rising. The American consumer, isn't pinching pennies yet. The total of personal incomes keeps growing and collectively he has more to spend. So he is spending a little more. Also, federal income tax rates are lower and he has more to spend. So he's spending a little more of that.
But in the first weeks after the tax cut, his extra dollars seemed to be going largely toward trimming his debt load. This is a kind of savings in itself. Charge accounts and other forms of personal short term debt shrunk a bit. And while the consumer was paying his bills, his savings account in various institutions either were not growing at all or at a noticeably reduced rate.
Then sales of many big-ticket items, like autos and household appliances, were healthier than in recent years. The taking on of new installment credit to finance such sales was noted.
From this, government and some colorate economists decided that the tax cut was achieving its avowed purpose, spurring economic growth. People were buying, so industry could produce, and expand to produce more.
But now the savings institutions report that the savings rate is increasing again — and this time without the stimulus of any new increase in interest rates on savings. Having settled their more nagging bills, some Americans apparently are putting away more of their increased takehome pay.
That still leaves money enough in the country to raise the total of retail sales. And the outlook for fall business is good, most merchants agree.
Manufacturers have been more inspired by the tax cuts and depreciation allowances. Their spending for expansion and modernization increases with each new report. And most of them have the sales and profits gains to back up their optimism for the future.
Savings by consumers, so long as total spending isn't cut, is no drag in itself on the economy.
The funds pouring into the institutions are available for the financing of the growth which industry is starting or planning.

Charge accounts and other forms of personal short term debt shrunk a bit. And while the consumer was paying his bills, his savings account in various institutions either were not growing at all or at a noticeably reduced rate.
Then sales of many big-ticket items, like autos and household appliances, were healthier than in recent years. The taking on of new installment credit to finance such sales was noted.
From this, government and some colorate economists decided that the tax cut was achieving its avowed purpose, spurring economic growth. People were buying, so industry could produce, and expand to produce more.
But now the savings institutions report that the savings rate is increasing again — and this time without the stimulus of any new increase in interest rates on savings. Having settled their more nagging bills, some Americans apparently are putting away more of their increased takehome pay.
That still leaves money enough in the country to raise the total of retail sales. And the outlook for fall business is good, most merchants agree.
Manufacturers have been more inspired by the tax cuts and depreciation allowances. Their spending for expansion and modernization increases with each new report. And most of them have the sales and profits gains to back up their optimism for the future.
Savings by consumers, so long as total spending isn't cut, is no drag in itself on the economy.
The funds pouring into the institutions are available for the financing of the growth which industry is starting or planning.

NEW YORK (AP) — A buildup in savings is reported this summer. This reverses the trend earlier in the year. And it adds a new chapter, however brief it may prove to be, to the business and government's hardy whodunit. What will the American consumer do with his money?
Retail sales are still rising. The American consumer, isn't pinching pennies yet. The total of personal incomes keeps growing and collectively he has more to spend. So he is spending a little more. Also, federal income tax rates are lower and he has more to spend. So he's spending a little more of that.
But in the first weeks after the tax cut, his extra dollars seemed to be going largely toward trimming his debt load. This is a kind of savings in itself. Charge accounts and other forms of personal short term debt shrunk a bit. And while the consumer was paying his bills, his savings account in various institutions either were not growing at all or at a noticeably reduced rate.

tives, age 16 and 12, to recover the tour. Here is their dispatch:

Our Visit to Universal City By Nancy and Janet Thomas

We loaded onto a three-car tram which was pretty and pink with a fringe on top. Our hostess told us to remain seated and take as many photos as we wanted, except that they couldn't be used for commercial purposes. That was all right because we didn't bring a camera.
The tram went through the gate and the hostess started pointing out where the producers, writers and stars have their offices. We saw Cary Grant's and Gene Kelly's parking spaces, but their cars weren't there.
We drove down a street lined with sound stages and with dressing rooms that belonged to Leslie Carno, Ethel Merman and Sandra Dee.
Next we drove down a street that had houses with no backs. One of them was built in 1924 for "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Gee, it's almost as old as dad. Another house the used in "Leave it to Beaver." Then there was one that appeared in movies of Deanna Durbin. Who's Deanna Durbin?
The tram stopped on top of a hill where they had Visitors' Village. There were covered wagons, old cars, a saloon, an animal cage, and a bouncing car in front of a moving background. Refreshments, too. Lost 15 cents in the lemonade machine.
On we went, past the motel in "Psycho," the set of "McHale's Navy" a war scene for "Suspense Theater," a European street, and lots of other places. Then we were taken downstairs in the new commissary where we saw a makeup demonstration, rushes of the new films, miniature sets, and postcards of the studio.
It was fun. Lets do it again.

THE TAX REDUCTION

By Ed Lacy

I was having lunch and full of my usual pay day anger because out of my pay Uncle Sam had taken a big chunk in taxes. I can't live on what's left. Being a man of good taste I wear 200 suits, my stereo an d tape recorder are the most expensive, as are my various cameras and radios. Due to the large tax bill, I have to buy on the installment plan and enough payments were due this week to leave me broke.

We single guys are supporting the country! If I was married I'd not only get the $600 exemption for my wife, but my weekly tax deduction would be smaller. It burns me. Why should single people be penalized? Sure, someday I'll marry. I'm only 36 and have time for that. I don't need a wife, my sharp clothes turn the chicks' heads. In fact, tonight I have an 11 o'clock date with a most cute number.

Over coffee I happened to read this small item in the newspaper; some rich cat had his pocket picked and lost $1000. There wasn't any chance of recovering the wallet but this rich fellow told the police, "Well, I suppose I can take it off my income tax, as a loss."

The idea hit me so hard I nearly choked. I'd been a fool! I'd stage a "little robbery" and recover some of my tax money. I cashed my pay check at the bank, withdrew $500 of the $515 in my savings. If you're wondering how I was able to save that much, I didn't. I was lucky enough, for a change, to hit a fairly double at the track. Really lucky, because since it was under $600, the track didn't take my name, report the win to the ax boys.

On reaching my office, I placed the five $100 bills, plus my pay, inside my sock, knew it was safe every time I took a nap. I live in a basement apartment in the "arty" section of town.

At first, I was going to break one of the three locks on my door, but I had a simpler idea. I merely unlocked and opened the rear window a crack. Next I phoned the police station and told them, "I wish to report a robbery. I withdrew some money today to pay bills and while I was out shopping just now, some crook came through the back window and took $578."

The officer asked for my name and address and then asked me to repeat my story while he wrote down the details I had given. When I finished he said, "Be impossible to trace cash. Anything else missing?"

"No sir. I... found my coat on the floor, the thief must have heard me returning and took off. I'm reporting it so I can at least deduct it from my income tax at the end of the year."

I thought after I mentioned income tax that maybe I was talking too much, but the officer didn't act suspicious.

"We'll send a detective over as soon as possible. In the meantime, check to see if anything else was taken."

Shaving from my date, I grinned at my sharp face in the mirror. This year I'd get a rebate from Washington. I had the window open, a list of my due payments, and my bank book ready to prove I'd had the money. And of course all the time I was literally standing on it.

The clock read 7 p.m. and no police. I was worried about being late, for my date. I thought perhaps he didn't see my name in the bells, so I stood outside.

Reichstag in Berlin Being Restored

By KLAUS SCHULZVOBACH

BERLIN (AP) — The bus stopped in front of a crumbling half-ruined building, standing in a wasteland created by wartime bombing. A group of 16-year-old boys and girls formed a ring around a guide. It was a hot day, and the girls wore gay summer prints.

"Here," said the guide, "Adolf Eichmann issued his orders that meant death for millions of Jews."

The youngsters looked solemn. They had read reports of the trial and execution of Eichmann in Jerusalem. They had been following recent trials of Nazi criminals in West Germany.

But this was their first direct encounter with a relic of the criminal past. They were not born when the Third Reich crumbled in defeat in 1945.

This was part of a new approach to a problem that has plagued many of Germany's educators and parents since the war: how to deal with the Nazi past. Some have ducked it, possibly because of their own feelings of guilt and shame. Now, in the West Berlin Borough of Wedding, the facts were being laid on the line.

The students guide, a 30-year old municipal official, told them: "The Nazis regarded Germans as a master race. In their eyes the Jews were of the most inferior value. They were gassed, shot and hanged. Eichmann's office was the headquarters of systematic mass murder."

As the bus rolled for three hours through the city the guide repeatedly switched on a tape recorder. It played the voices of Adolf Hitler, his propaganda minister Josef Goebbels, of Nazi judges condemning opponents of the regime and of Jewish survivors of death camps.

The Reichstag, the parliament building that mysteriously burned in 1933, giving Hitler the excuse to seize total power, is now being slowly restored for possible use by the West Ger-

7:15 p.m. and still no detective. Of course, I wouldn't mention winning the money at the track, claim I'd saved it.

I was getting jittery, it was 7:30 and I didn't want to stand up this cute babe.

A car stopped and a burly type with detective stamped all over him, stepped out. I told him who I was as we went down the steps into my apartment.

The second I opened the door I saw I'd really been robbed! While I was outside some rat-fink had come through the open rear window and cleaned me out—taken my suits, my radios, my cameras and recorder! As I gasped to the dick, "Great day in the morning, I've been robbed of over $1600 worth of stuff."

"We'll try the hock shops, of course," the detective said, writing down a description of the things, even the serial numbers of the cameras and typewriter from my time payment books. "Robbed twice within an hour, the crook must have been watching you from the alley. Not much chance of getting the things back, but with this loss you probably won't have to pay any income tax at all this year."

I was too sick to bother answering. The devil with the tax, how am I going to replace all my things, not to mention finish paying on the missing cameras and other items?

Seems a single man just can't win. I'd outfoxed myself. (The End)

"Come now, Clarence! Do you want me to tell the folks back home you were a World's Fair dropout?"

man Parliament.

With this historic backdrop, close up against the wall dividing the city, the guide told of the weakness of German democracy between the two world wars:

"Hitler's policy was war. When he advocated peace and self-determination he did not mean it."

He traced the course of Nazi conquests, noting that open resistance to Hitler emerged only after he suffered defeats.

Then came the questions: "Why were so few people against Hitler?" One earnest boy remarked resignedly: "What could people do? It was the parallel to the situation in East Germany today. There is no real resistance to the Communists. The people are frightened."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The first casualties have returned from Otto Preminger's replay of Pearl Harbor and its aftermath, "In Harm's Way."

One returnee from the Hawaiian location is Hugh O'Brian, who promptly entered a hospital for a four-week treatment of a tropical virus. Another is Paula Prentiss, who came back to the mainland with one of her lengthy legs in a cast.

"Broke the darned thing in a scene," she reported. "Worked the rest of the day, though. Didn't dare quit, you know Oll."

Indeed I do. He is the hard-headed taskmaster whose bite is seldom as fierce as his bark. Paula, who stands 5 feet 9 without case, said she got along marvelously with him.

"We had some wonderful fights," said the San Antonio, Tex., beauty. "Whenever we had a difference of opinion over a scene, he and I had a fine shouting match. I think he likes it that way. It was good for me, too; by the time I did the scenes I had a good steam of emotion up."

Her accident occurred on her last day of shooting. She and John Wayne were supposed to be running through the cane fields during the Japanese bombing. The cane had been chopped down to photographable height, but the runners had little vision of where they were stepping. Paula stepped into a three-foot pothole. Crunch!

"For eight days I had to keep my foot elevated so the swelling would go down," she related. "I kept looking at it and say to myself, 'If I'm going to break my leg doing a picture, I ought to get paid for it.'"

The source of her dissatisfaction was her contract with MGM, which allowed the studio to collect handsome fees for loanouts like "Man's Favorite Sport?" "The World of Henry Orient" and "In Harm's Way" while paying her only her usual salary. Meanwhile the studio had no work of its own for Paula.

Paula's contract has now been adjusted to one film a year. That leaves her free to do movies and plays for her own personal profit.

Injuries Fatal at Forrest City

MEMPHIS (AP)—Alton Carlton of Springdale, Ark., died today of injuries suffered in a wreck at Forrest City Sunday.

Carlton was a passenger in a truck which swerved to avoid hitting a car on U. S. 70 in Forrest City, and plunged into a ditch.

The truck trailer, loaded with vegetables, rammed into the cab.

Rescue workers labored three hours to cut the roof off the cab and free Carlton and John Reynolds, 26, of Springdale, the truck driver.

Reynolds, who also was injured, was reported in satisfactory condition in a Forrest City hospital today.

The truck struck the front fender of the car, driven by Retha Hutchins, 17, of Forrest City. She was not injured.

Too Busy to Show His Books

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Welfare Commissioner Jim Phillips requested a delay Monday when accountants hired by the Committee for the Two Party System asked to discuss operations of his department.

The accountants are reviewing operations of state agencies. Gov. Orval E. Faubus has called the Two Party study a part of Republican Winthrop Rockefeller's campaign for election as governor, but Faubus said he had no objections to the review.

A spokesman for the accounting firm said Phillips advised him he wanted to confer with Phillips before he committed himself.

Phillips said he put off the meeting because of a heavy schedule this week. Also he said Boss Mitchell, assistant state welfare commissioner, is on vacation; and Fred Henne, chief of personnel, is on military leave and he wants both available for discussions involving the agency.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After 16 days spent with people involved in next season's new television programs, a reporter becomes convinced they have all memorized the same basic, all-purpose script for interviews.

Usual procedure is to set up confrontations with the stars-to-be and producers or creators of entertainment programs, with a press agent confidentially passing along his personal opinion that the show will be a smash. Then, no matter who is trotted out, the interview drops into familiar ruts. It goes about like this: Interviewer is conducted by press agent to studio commissary or nearby restaurant and, after a few minutes, subject arrives for lunch break. If it is an actor, he wears his make-up, costume and a happy smile. If it is the producer, he wears a sharply pressed sports jacket and slacks, and is always pressed for time. "Creators," who are usually writers by trade, look as if they had just stepped off a sailboat, and act worried. But the words are the same. Interviewer: "So how are things going?" Interviewee: "Just marvelously! I must say that I've never been a part of such a talented team. The scripts are just great, every one funny, unusual and full of real entertainment values." Interviewer: "There were reports in the trade papers that you were having script trouble and the sponsor was unhappy." Interviewee: "Scripts — You'll die laughing at some, like the one where I want to play golf on Saturday but my wife wants me to clean the cellar..." Interviewer: "Yes, yes, but—" Interviewee: "Wow, time's up. I've got to get back to the set. They are very strict about being on time, you know. Any-going, and I think that with some help and backing from people like you, we'll be in great shape. Gosh, it's been a pleasure talking with you." Current scuttlebutt — or maybe just adroit press agency — has NBC's "Rogues" looming as a hit; ABC's "Bing Crosby Show" turning up good comedy scripts, and CBS' "Living Doll" emerging as a bright, off-beat series. The Arkansas Gazette whose first number was published November 20, 1819, at the Arkansas Post, is known as the "Old Lady" of Arkansas journalism. The press that was used may be seen now at the Territorial Capitol in Little Rock.

Woman Tells About Trip to Australia

By ALVIN SCHAY
Associated Press Writer

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Raymond Wheelis, who with her daughter returned here Tuesday from five weeks of wintertime in Australia, greeted the Arkansas heat wave with a terse statement: "We needed warming up."

Mrs. Wheelis and her daughter, Dianne, 16, wound their trip with praise for both America and Australia.

They were also deeply thankful to the Paragould residents who chipped in 550 books of trading stamps and $1,880 in cash, so Mrs. Wheelis could see her native land for the first time in 18 years.

She said the trip was wonderful, but added it was wonderful to be back home, too. She saw many changes since she left Melbourne as a war bride, and said Australian friends and relatives told her she was "a real Yank (American) now."

Dianne missed American food, and on the plane told her mother about the first thing she wanted to do when she got to Paragould: "I'm going to Johnny's Drive-In and get a barbecue and Coke!"

Mrs. Wheelis said the Australian were quite "taken up" with the idea of a trip financed with trading stamps, which are illegal in some parts of the "Down Under" country.

She said they also found it hard to believe she was a bank teller (at the First National Bank here), since very few Australian women ever get to be tellers.

She said she was taken on many tours, and was guest of honor at several reunion parties, including one arranged by women who had worked with her at a manufacturing firm before she got married.

"I probably saw more of Australia than I did the whole time I lived there before," she said. Mrs. Wheelis said the countryside was beautiful and mentioned that grass grows in the winter and trees are green all year.

The Australian seasons are opposite those in America. It was 38 degrees when Mrs. Wheelis and Dianne left Sydney on Sunday.

She said it was extremely cold and said there was a lack of heat in homes there. She explained that Americans keep their homes warmer in the winter, although she never noticed the chilliness before she left Australia after the war.

Mrs. Wheelis said she was surprised to see many young Australian men with the long hair style of the famous rock-n-roll foursome from Britain, the Beatles. The Beatles were in

Sit-ins Are Working Out Jail Sentence

By DOUGLAS STARR
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) —

A group of clergymen who went to jail Monday on a sit-in conviction after three years of appeals ran out have started a new line of appeal.

The five white and three Negro clergymen spent the night in segregated cells and were assigned work duties for today. But their lawyer said the men probably would pay $500 fines and go home if the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans refuses to take jurisdiction and grant bond during appeals.

The lawyer, Howard Dixon, said he sent the court an emergency telegram and he expected a decision by Wednesday.

U.S. Dist. Judge G. Harold Carswell turned down the clergymen's petition Monday. It contended there was no evidence of unlawful assembly and that an Interstate Commerce Commission order had wiped out segregation at Tallahassee transportation terminals.

The clergymen were "freedom riders" testing compliance with the ICC order. They were arrested for an awful assembly when they refused to leave a segregated airport restaurant.

Carswell said the clergymen must return to Municipal Court Judge John Rudd, who had convicted them three years ago.

The clergymen have lost appeals to the circuit court, State Supreme Court and the U.S. Supreme Court. They are:

The Rev. John W. Collier of Newark, N.J.; Dr. Robert M. Brown of Stanford, Calif.; the Rev. Robert J. Stone of New York City; the Rev. A. McArven Warner of New York City; Rabbi Israel Dresner of Springfield, N.J.; Rabbi Martin Friedman of Paterson, N.J.; the Rev. Arthur L. Haridge of New Britain, Conn.; and the Rev. Petty D. McKinney of Nyack, N.Y.

"DEAR ABBY"

THOSE SUITS AGAIN

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: When I first heard about the topless bathing suits for women I thought it was just a lot of talk. But yesterday, I was shopping in one of our finest department stores, and I actually SAW one for sale! Is it possible that our American women would even consider wearing a topless swim suit in public? If so, we have indeed reached the lowest point in our so-called civilization. Even lower than the decadence which preceded the fall of the Roman Empire. Have we become so numb to indecency that nothing is sacred any more? We are at the same time striving for world peace. Who cares if Khrushchev pushes the button? What's left to save?

MOTHER OF GIRLS

Dear Mother: The bottoms.

Dear Abby: My mother-in-law has five grandchildren, two of which are my children. Ever since I can recall, on the mornings of their birthdays she would give me some cash and ask me if I minded buying them a present from her. She said it was hard for her to get around, etc., etc. I have always bought the gifts and said nothing. The last time she asked me if I minded, I said, "Yes, I DO mind," and I told her why. Abby, I have driven from one end of this town to the other while she personally shopped for birthday gifts for her other grandchildren — her daughter's children — and if she can ask ME to drive her around while she shops for THEM, she can ask her daughter to drive her around while she shops for MINE. She told my husband and he is furious with me. Was I wrong?

STANDING ALONE

Dear Standing: You were justified in feeling that you were not being treated fairly, but you'd have been wise to have said nothing. The daughter versus the daughter-in-law competition is as old as the marriage law, and you won't win that battle in one round.

Dear Abby: There is a boy in my neighborhood who used to like me, but he hasn't paid any attention to me for a while now. Would it be all right if I called him up and asked him what I did to make him mad at me? I have asked all the kids she is friendly with if they know why he hardly ever says "hi" to me, and they say they don't know. Maybe if I could talk to him I could get him interested in me again. I am 15 and so is he.

HUNG UP ON HIM

Dear Hung Up: Don't call him. And unless you want to kill any future interest he may have in you, don't ask friends any questions about him. Forward females finish last.

Dear Abby: I read your column daily. May I comment on the "baby sitting" issue?

When young people refuse to "sit" for their parents, or demand payment from their parents for this service, it is the PARENTS who have failed, not the children. They should have been taught respect for their elders at an early age.
